

Buy Bitcoins With Credit Card

Several services will now allow you to buy bitcoins with your credit card (even though it is risky for sellers to offer this option). But it comes with a price and some hassle – mostly connected with verification process.

Buy bitcoins with credit/debit card at Coinbase

Coinbase is one of the best bitcoin wallets at the moment and it allows users to purchase bitcoin by directly transferring money from a bank account – this is a standard option. The exchange also supports secure credit and debit cards to purchase bitcoins instantly.

At this time Visa, Mastercard and Maestro cards with 3D Secure authentication support may be added to a Coinbase account. Currently 32 countries are supported, including US, Canada, European Union countries and Singapore. If you buy more than $100 worth of bitcoin through this link, you'll get $10 of free bitcoin.

Buy bitcoins with credit card at Coinmama

CoinMama has a great service. Probably this is the fastest way to get your bitcoins with credit card. Verification is fast and they have good user support too (if you are already a verified customer your orders will be processed immediately). You can purchase up to $1000 worth of bitcoin daily or $5000 monthly. The only problem is, that it really comes with the price. First, the exchange rate for bitcoins is way above the daily rate on major trading platforms (about 10%), plus they will charge you an additional 10$ flat fee, which is taken from their credit card processing provider. You will get a 5% discount if you use the link above.

Buy bitcoins with credit card via Cex.io

Once trading and mining platform Cex.io has now a service to buy bitcoin currency via credit and debit cards – they accept Visa and Mastercard currently. Please note that several steps are needed for account verification before you can actually buy bitcoins, so this is not an easy and quick process – but if you are planning to buy currency more often, the hassle is worth it. Once bought, coins are immediately credited to your account! Fees for credit card deposits in USD and EUR have been lowered to 3.5% + 0.2 USD/EUR recently.

Buy bitcoins with credit card via VirWox

You need a free account on Virtual World Exchange. Using the VirWox you can buy Second Life Lindens (SLL) with credit card and then convert your SLL to bitcoins. The process is done through the use of PayPal or Skrill, so every credit card which PayPal/Skrill accepts is eligible to be used in this process. This process will charge you transaction fees of around 6% and no verification is needed.

Buy bitcoins with credit card via 24/7 Exchange

24/7 Exchange offers instant way to buy bitcoins with credit card. They do not hold your funds, they deliver bitcoins instantly after the payment and you'll know the exact price of bitcoin before you'll have to pay. The only problem is that the whole process of buying takes around 3 business days as they have thorough verification process. Also the website is a bit confusing from time to time.

Other providers

There are other providers that somehow did not make to the list above – either they provide buying process in some local currency, they use some workaround through some other provider or there are other reasons why we did not include them. But they still provide buy bitcoin with credit cards service in some way, so please check them if you think they can be useful to you. Currently on the list: CleverCoin, Circle, Cubits, Indacoin and CoinCorner.